A SCREW LOOSE

Hillsboro June 19 1874

To the Editor of the Oregonian

Yesterday your humble servant started out on a smelling tour and here is what he smelt

Washington county has not received any apportionment of the interest on the State School fund though the same was due on the 1st of April and that the same has been demanded by ye county officials, And their request for coin or explanation, so they all aver has been totally disregarded by the High Priest and his retinue under him No communication can be had though demanded in the name of the Immortal Jackson! So that by this time the matter stinketh and all Washington county is becoming exceedingly wroth An explanation is certainly in order or we will have to speak of the matter

Dr Joseph Boyce of Hillsboro died June 18th at his residence at [illegible] o clock in the morning The funeral will take place June 20th at 2 P M and will be conducted by the Order of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of which body the Doctor was an old and much respected member He was also trustee for the M E Church in Hillsboro; He has been member of that Church for some fifty years and was one of the main stays in the little Church here The entire people not only mourn the loss of one of their best citizens but the loss to the community at large as it will be a hard matter to get another that will fill his place acceptably

SENTENCE OF DEATH

Thos J Gerrand, of Champoeg, Sentenced to be Hanged Friday August 14th.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Salem June 19 —Thomas J Gerrand was sentenced to be hanged on Friday August 14 for the killing of Thomas J Hubbard When asked if he had anything to say he spoke a few sentences but so low that it could scarcely be heard although your reporter was only a few feet from him He said in his remarks that three of the witnesses had sworn to positive falsehoods He looks as if he was not more than 17 or 18 years old and was pale but did not exhibit much emotion while Judge Bonham passed sentence upon him The court room was densely crowded and some women were present

Judge Bonham's Remarks

Judge Bonham said Thomas Gerrand you have had the benefit of able counsel for your defense and have had a fair and impartial trial by a jury of your countrymen and peers and after solemn and due deliberation the verdict of guilty as charged in the indictment has been returned against you No other verdict in my judgment, could have been returned under the law and testimony in your case And while the jury in your case for some reason which I do not fully comprehend saw proper to commend you to the mercy of the Court yet, under the imperative mandate of the law which I have sworn to faithfully administer there is no other alternative left me but to pronounce against you that judgment which the law has provided as the penalty for the great crime of which you stand convicted. All that I can do is to commend you to the mercy of Him who has power to grant it and before whose august tribunal you will soon be called upon to answer whoso sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed is alike the law of God and of this State And it only now remains so far as the duty of the court is concerned in your case to perform the solemn and painful duty of pronouncing against you that judgment which the verdict of the jury warrants and the law directs It is therefore ordered and adjudged by the court that you shall now be taken from this court room to your place of confinement in the county jail of this county that you there be securely guarded and kept in close confinement until Friday the 14th day of August A D 1874, on which day and between the hours of one and three o clock in the afternoon thereof you shall by the proper officers be taken from your place of confinement to the gallows to be hereafter erected for that purpose and that you be then and there hanged by the neck until you are dead And may God have mercy on your soul

COMMENCEMENT DAY AT CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

To the Editor of the Oregonian

Since our former communication a day and more scenes have intervened Tuesday gave us nothing but rain and its forebodings and Wednesday seemed quite cautious, lest Aquarius should be reinstated in his accustomed dominions However, the village bell invites our attention, and we learn it calls the Alumni to executive session Being thither attracted, we gaze upon the first work of the Christian Brotherhood—their new College building.

Forbear to hear a brief description of this neat structure—the pride of our Western Reformers as they are called

The building is brick, two and one-half stories with a gothic roof It is seventy-two feet long and thirty six wide in the clear The lower story consists of two large recitation rooms, separated by a wide hall The ceilings are fourteen feet, rooms well seated and blackboards entirely around the walls The style of building is collegiate gothic with fine large double windows of the same design From the north front you enter the hall and immediately you are at the foot of a stairway leading to the capacious chapel on the second floor This room is plainly finished but in a very neat, substantial manner having a second stairway leading to the attic rooms still above The entire building is finished with hard plastering and is intended as a north wing to an eastern front This with the old building south of it is sufficient for the present demands, being capable of seating over three hundred students The grounds are beautifully located and soon the young growth of fir and maple—now quite shady—will make the site a beauteous forest More care should be taken with the grounds and a janitor who would attend more closely to business would be a valuable acquisition

This is the building these the grounds and as the music of the Monmouth Silver Cornet Band calls, we are warned that Commencement exercises have begun A representative from the Philosophian Literary Society—Mr Charles Miller—first addressed the audience upon Education Matter good, elocution neglected, and an uneasy stiffness about the speaker With fair training he would speak well

Mr I L Bell then was introduced as the representative of the Hesperians and he did himself credit in one thing—forcible language His peroration was especially pointed as well as convincing

After music the Latin Salutatory was read by Jerome Knox one of the graduates, and of course few know its beauties We saw one—the last word— Speramus We hope so at least

A short address by Joseph Solomon Stump, B S of Monmouth followed Subject [illegible] of Thought And the young gentleman did very well, being less a speaker than a writer

Mr Albert Turner of Sheridan Yamhill county followed and gave us a number of evidences on the Progress of Science This gentleman is in poor health and we anticipated a painful failure We were happily disappointed

Mr Thomas Graves B S of Bethel spoke of the Causes that Work and acquitted himself creditably with the exception of [illegible] in his haste in delivery

President T I Campbell then conferred the degrees and delivered a short Baccalaureate The President said Young gentlemen you as is evidenced by these diplomas are declared able to conduct your further education as teacher and student in one person This—a mere extract—a straw drawn from a bundle of good counsel Music and then the valedictory by Jerome Knox A B the only member of the class graduated in the class [illegible] He spoke of The Past Present and Future and elicited the warmest applause of the assembly Bouquets were showered down upon the boys and the friends seemed proud to congratulate the young efforts of us full manhood

The work of Commencement is ended and the Benediction of the [illegible] teachers go with the students leaving for vacation's rest and upon the heads of kind Professors a hundred blessings fall as Farewells are spoken and Good byes repeated

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 20, 1874.

TIME TO BEGIN.

Less than three months will elapse before the meeting of the Legislature. Those members who mean to do their best endeavors to redeem the pledges on which they were elected, and intend to devote themselves earnestly to the work of securing such legislation as the country stands in need of, should be digesting subjects and bringing their minds down to the consideration of details. Hasty legislation is generally bad legislation. An ill-considered and undigested legislative enactment proves a greater evil, in most cases, than that which it was designed to remedy. This is the secret of much of the crude and inefficient legislation with which Oregon has been vexed. The constitutional limitation upon the length of time the Legislature may sit, is such as to allow but little time for anything else, after politicians that ordinarily manage that body have used up the number of days and weeks necessary to get their little jobs all into good shape. So that a very large proportion of what legislating has been done solely or mainly for the common good, has been more or less hurried and correspondingly imperfect.

This is "off year" in party politics. There is no U. S. Senator to be elected. There is no Governor to be chosen for four years. Consequently there is less occasion than usual for members to be wholly, or as nearly as at other sessions, absorbed in political plans. An excellent opportunity is therefore offered for the making of good, wholesome laws upon subjects in which the people are vitally interested. We have had legislation enough in the past, but not good enough. What is wanted now is some judicious repealing of bad laws, some revision and a small amount of careful, well-considered affirmative legislation. With this, the burdens of the State and county governments can be greatly reduced and their efficiency as greatly increased.

If the people of Oregon are to have this kind of honest, earnest work from the men they have just designated to make laws for them, those men should now be collecting information, digesting such plans as may be suggested, preparing themselves to meet every case that may arise. The discussions preceding the election naturally dealt in generalities, leaving particulars to be attended to by the officers after they were chosen. The part to be performed by the latter should by no means be put off till the meeting of the Legislature, to be taken up then without previous thought and gone through with in a hasty and slip-shod manner.

SHALL WE HAVE A NEW CUSTOM HOUSE?

The Bulletin of Thursday publishes a letter from J. H. Mitchell to Wm. A. Richardson, Secretary of the Treasury, dated May 27, 1874, in which the junior Senator from Oregon calls attention to the fact that the present Custom House in Portland is unfortunately situated and avers that a new building should be erected for the convenience of Custom House officers. Mr. A. B. Mullett, Supervising Architect of the Treasury, also writes a letter to Mr. Richardson, in which he states that he visited Portland during the summer of 1873; that he surveyed the landscape o'er and o'er and came to the conclusion that a new Custom House would be a good thing. He therefore recommends that an appropriation be made therefor. Next, Mr. Richardson writes a letter to Hon. Justin S. Morrill, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, in which he commends the communications above referred to to "the most favorable consideration" of the committee. Lastly, we find the following in a Washington dispatch of June 13th:

> "The amended apportionments made for public buildings by the Supervising Architect of the Treasury in sundry civil appropriation bills which are before the House to-day, include the following: for a Custom House at Portland, Oregon, $200,000, and for furniture $20,000."

So it seems to be settled that Portland is to have another Custom House. We do not care to discuss whether or not it is needed. Senator Mitchell has said it would be advisable, and everybody knows that he isn't the man to stand by an see the people's money squandered idly and to no purpose. He is reputed to have a thorough acquaintance with that branch of statesmanship commonly known as the art of putting money where it will do the most good. Mr. Mullett has said the appropriation would redound to the credit of the Government, and Mr. Mullett knows what a good thing is—seeing "as how he draws a salary of $3,000 and upward as an ornamental engineer to the District Board of Public Works along with his salary as Supervising Architect of the Treasury. Mr. Richardson confidently assures Senator Morrill that there is no job in the business—and the whole country stands in awe of the ex-Secretary's zealous watch over the Treasury and the wonderful transactions that once occurred under his administration "in the ordinary routine of Department business." After all this, it were useless to ask for the opinion of Revenue Sanborn and Custom House Jayne, and worse than useless to inquire of the tax-payers.

Two hundred thousand dollars for a Custom House! Faith, 'tis a modest sum. Twenty thousand dollars for furniture! What visions of rep and ormolu, of Axminster and tapestry, of fresco and statuary, of sideboards and sumptuous cabinets, of cut glass finger bowls and all manner of Bohemian ware for the dainty tastes of the ex-bohemian Collector! And if Higgins evolved a gray mare out of the old Custom House, why shouldn't Scott get a landaulet out of the new?

Twenty thousand dollars for furniture for the new Custom House! And how much for the improvement of Willamette and Yamhill rivers? How much to open up and keep in navigable condition the great highway along which the products of five of the most fertile counties in the State must pass to the ocean? Seven thousand dollars. How much for the vital necessity of Eastern Oregon—for unlocking the chasm through which the grain, the wool and the herds of that rich section must find transportation to the seaboard? Twenty thousand dollars. Thus stands the account, and this is the broad and enlightened statesmanship of our junior Senator: for a second Custom House at Portland (the first one affording ample accommodations for all present needs), $220,000; for the improvement of water-routes which are practically closed during a good part of the year and on which thousands of farmers actually depend for sustenance, twenty-seven thousand dollars. Perhaps the people of Portland are interested more in the expenditure of $220,000 here and the possession of handsomely-furnished quarters for the Ring, than in the inauguration of a system of internal improvements upon which the growth and stability of our ocean commerce will, in large degree depend. We can not believe that this is so.

The OREGONIAN has already shown up the job in the scheme for the appropriation of $50,000 for the purchase of a lot of old crucibles, retorts, etc., belonging to the private assay office in this city. Here is another fifty thousand to be added to the enormous grab, making $270,000 in all. Mullett, who appears to be altogether too liberal to be scrupulously honest, officially recommends all these enterprises. Modest Mullett! If Congress shall attempt to keep pace with this extravagant Supervising Architect the national currency will have to be inflated to an extent surpassing the wildest dreams of Morton and Logan. And this is the outcome of Mitchell's study of the transportation problem in Oregon last year. How far would $270,000 go toward the solution of that problem? And in which of the appropriations are the constituents of Senator Mitchell most interested? Could we have both it might in time be well. Since we can have but one which shall it be: cheap transportation or a new Custom House?

LUTTRELL SNUBBED.

By a vote of 7 to 5 the Pacific Railroad Committee has refused to institute an investigation into the affairs of the California Credit Mobilier, known as the Contract and Finance Company. For several months past, Representative Luttrell has been working with might and main for the appointment of a Committee to inquire into his charges against this corporation. His earnest efforts were approved by the Legislature of California which, at its last session, passed a resolution requesting Congress to grant the investigation. The best and most influential papers in that State have been urging the matter ever since the adjournment of the Legislature. And the people of California undoubtedly believe in Luttrell's allegations and desire an investigation of Central Pacific affairs. The conduct of that corporation clearly indicates that there is reasonable ground for the appointment of the committee prayed for. It has been fighting off all inquisition. Its lawyers have appeared before the Pacific Railroad Committee and fought Luttrell from the first, and the latter seems to have struggled single-handed and alone. It was of no avail. Luttrell, Legislature, press and people have been snubbed. The Central Pacific company has triumphed, and the day of corporational rule at Washington has not yet ended. But it will be the strangest thing in the world if the matter is dropped now. Some day the Central Pacific must open its books and answer to a Congress made of different stuff.

WANTED—ROOM FOR THE RING.

In his letter to Mr. Richardson, Senator Mitchell uses this language:

> A greater obstacle, however, than this [i. e., undesirable location] and one that is insuperable, exists to prevent its use as a Custom-House, and that is the fact that the building, which is admirably adapted for the use of the Courts and Postoffice, has not the room requisite for Custom-House officers.

Unless we greatly mistake the drift of popular opinion it will some day be demonstrated (and that right quickly) that there is no room in Oregon for the corrupt ring of Custom-House officers.

> "Room for the leper! Room!" And as he came,
> The cry passed on: 'Room for the leper! Room!'"

Two hundred and seventy thousand dollars to build a new Custom-House, and give these political lepers room! In 1876 comes an election for a United States Senator to succeed James K. Kelly. It is all important that the Ring should control the Legislature in that year. Two hundred and seventy thousand dollars, then, for corrupting the election; for bribery and repeating; for fraud and violence; for the support of a decrepit newspaper grown prematurely old under its burden of rascality. The honest people of Oregon have said that they will no longer suffer the usurpations of these same "Custom-House officers." Must the national treasury be plundered to the tune of $270,000 to reinstate the old despotism of fraud and villainy over honest voters? Aye, the Ring must have "room!"

THE NEXT SENATOR FROM NEVADA.

In the election to be held Nov. 3d the people of Nevada will elect a legislature which, meeting on the first Monday in January, will choose a successor to Hon. Wm. M. Stewart, present United States Senator from that State. Mr. Stewart will probably be a candidate for re-election, and it is said that he will have a strong backing. Wm. Sharon, the famous speculator and mine owner, will also be a candidate. His election, if it shall occur, will doubtless be brought about by the same influences that elevated John P. Jones to a seat in the United States Senate. Sharon owns a newspaper, wields a large patronage, and has "a mint of money" with which to urge his claims.

The third candidate of prominence appears in the person of Chas. E. DeLong, who issues an address to the people of Nevada denying the current reports that he has withdrawn from the contest, that he is running in the interest of some other aspirant and that he is a candidate for some other position. In this address Mr. DeLong alludes to his anti-monopoly record. He reminds the people of Nevada that when the first State Constitution was submitted to them, he entered the canvass against the adoption of that instrument because it contained a clause granting a subsidy of three millions of dollars to the Central Pacific Railroad Company. The people endorsed his view. And he opposed a similar attempt in the second Constitutional Convention of which he was a member, and was again successful. Mr. De Long claims—and justly, as we believe—that on account of this record he was defeated in his first candidacy for the Senate. He pledges himself to a faithful continuance in these views. He points with justifiable pride to his record as Minister to Japan, asks the people to judge thereof by common report, and adds that he holds from his own and "from four other Governments, testimonials of a very high order, which he will be pleased to make public on any suitable occasion." In conclusion, he submits his claims to the action of the Republican party, promises to abide by the result, and that he "will accept any system by which contentions at primaries may be avoided." The address, as a whole, is an ingenious, and, to all appearances, an effective campaign document. Its style is unusual, but that may be excused, perhaps, on the ground that the author has been seriously misrepresented. Mr. DeLong's chances are said to be excellent. He stands well with the people.

The Ring wants room. If Mitchell will get an approriation for a furnace, the people of Oregon will cremate the whole Custom-House brood in 1876.

A PICKLED RATTLESNAKE.—It requires a good deal to "bluff" the average Custom Hous[illegible] official, but the attaches of that departme[illegible] have fairly met their match for once. Yeste[illegible] day, while inspecting a portion of the carg[illegible] brought here on one of the vessels from China, the officers came across a large glass jar fille[illegible] with wine, or at least what was supposed to [illegible] wine. Thinking that all was not right, [illegible] perhaps, moved by a common desire to "sam[illegible] ple" the liquor, the jar was opened. Start no[illegible] kind reader, when you learn what that myste[illegible] jar contained. We grant that it was fille[illegible] with wine, or some liquid resembling the ge[illegible] erous vintage in color and odor, but then the[illegible] was something else which lurked beneath it[illegible] crimson surface. "Wine is a mocker," say[illegible] the Scriptures, and "afterwards it bite[illegible] like a serpent." That brings us to the clima[illegible] of our story. Well did divine inspiration [illegible] which is generally conceded to have had [illegible] hand in penning the above quotations, spea[illegible] wisely. So think the Custom House officia[illegible] at least. A careful inspection of the content[illegible] of the jar revealed the startling fact that a[illegible] enormous rattlesnake was concealed within the depth of the wine. Do not imagine for a moment that the serpent wa[illegible] alive. Not he. Some one had chopped th[illegible] reptile into convenient lengths—say abou[illegible] four inches long—and he had done it artistica[illegible] ly with his "little hatchet." Head, tail a[illegible] trunk were all found intact in the jar, and a[illegible] in a fine state of preservation. The Custom House officers did not "sample" any of th[illegible] wine in that jar, although there can be b[illegible] little doubt that the delicacy of its flavor [illegible] materially enhanced by the trifling additio[illegible] of his defunct snakeship. Gentle reader, whe[illegible] you sit down to take your lunch, and bar[illegible] your sideboard graced with some of the dain[illegible] tiest and most choice wines of the Flowery Land, do not suffer horrid visions of pickled rattlesnakes to arise to perturb the equanimity of your stomach. You shouldn't mind it. Ugh!

IMPROVED ORDER OF RED MEN.—On Thurs[illegible] day evening last there was instituted in th[illegible] city by Le F. A. Shaw, Great Sachem, [illegible] by members of the Great Council of Oregon, a Degree Council of the above named Order, t[illegible] be known as Oregon Degree Council No. 1 o[illegible] Portland. The time and place of meeting wi[illegible] be the second and fourth Thursday of each month at the Wigwam. The following name[illegible] were duly elected and "raised up" to their r[illegible] spective stations: S., A. B. Hallock, P. S.; S. S. W. H. Williams; J. S., J. B. Dyer; C. of R., Geo. C. Sears; K. of W., W. H. Utter, P., Le F. A. Shaw, P. S. The Sachem made the following appointments: 1st S., W. S. Stevens, P. S.; 2d S., A. Campbell, P. S.; 1st W., H. D. Chapman; G. of W., B. R. Collins.

AT VOOS VILLA.—The following is the programme which will be discoursed at the above place to-morrow, for the benefit of the Independent German School, by the Portland City Band: 1st. Dame de la Blanchi, Belini; 2d. Ross Lind Mazourka, Bodecker; 3d. Adante, Abt; 4th, Ivy Club Lancers, Baiecker; 5th. Grand Potpouri, (Preziosa) Weber; 6th. Bruder Lustig Galop, Faust; 7th. Theresian Waltz, Faust; 8th, Aria Falstaff Balfe; 9th. Paulina Polka, Herzog; 10th, Serenade, Fedicke; 11th, Thunder and Lightning Galop, Strauss; 12th. German Medley, Capelle.

NEARLY A FIRE.—Last Thursday evening about 6 o'clock, a fire was discovered in the office of Bunting's carriage factory. The person making the discovery rushed in and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. The fire seems to have originated in a cigar stump which some one cast into a box filled with saw-dust, which ignited and communicated the flames to the window curtains and the walls of the premises. The damage sustained was the breaking of a few panes of glass and loss of the curtains.

STEAMERS ARRIVED.—The steamer Oriflamme arrived at this port yesterday morning about 8:30 o'clock, from San Francisco, with a full passenger list and about 450 tons of assorted cargo. Very soon after the arrival of the Oriflamme the steamer Idaho came in. This steamer sailed from San Francisco some days ago. She came up to carry away a load of freight—principally salmon—and will soon proceed down the river to take on a cargo.

A MOVE IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.—We are informed that steps are about being taken by an association or company of butchers and market-men of this place towards the erection at some suitable and central point in the city of a first-class brick market house. The fact that this enterprise will be under the control and management of the above class of tradesmen betokens success.

ANNIVERSARY OF CORONATION.—Sunday next being the 28th anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius IX., a grand Te Deum will be sung at Vesper service—8 o'clock in the evening—in honor of the event in the Catholic church in this city. The members of the Father Mathew Society, as also the members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, will attend service in a body.

NOTARY PUBLIC.—His Excellency L. F. Grover has appointed O. S. Phelps, Esq., a Notary Public in and for Multnomah county. Mr. Phelps has been recently elected Justice of the Peace for South Portland Precinct. He will open his office on the 1st of July, at the corner of First and Clay streets, at Justice Cinch's old office.

UNITARIAN CHURCH—VESPER SERVICE.—To-morrow will be the Vesper service, consisting of responsive worship, anthems and chants. The address will be given by Rev. Mr. Morrison, of Eastern Oregon, and will relate to his work in the cause of Liberal Christianity in that section.

PLAZA CONCERT.—The following programme will be played by the City Band at the Plaza this evening, commencing at 7 o'clock: Grand March, Zicoff; Serenade, Bottiger; Rosa Land Mazurka, Boderker; Cavatine, (Ernani) Verdi; San Francisco Waltz, Kiesler; American Medley, Rosa.

HORTICULTURAL.—The Executive Committee of the State Horticultural Society are requested to meet at the office of Gibbs & Hughes, in this city, on Thursday, June 25, 1874, at 2 o'clock P. M.

COMMENCEMENT AT ST HELEN'S HALL.

FIFTH ANNUAL EXAMINATION—GRADUATION EXERCISES

The fifth annual examination of the pupils of St. Helen's Hall in this city was held in the large school room under the chapel of that excellent institution. The exercises began on Monday the 15th, with the examination of the lower classes. These classes comprised the smaller girls and of course their examination was less attractive except to those specially interested than those which followed on Tuesday and Wednesday and therefore the number of visitors was small until Wednesday when Senior A Class, the graduating class, was examined. But nevertheless the exercises of Monday were very pleasing and satisfactory. The manner in which the young ladies answered all the questions put to them showed how well instructed they had been and the wide range and comprehensive character of the questions proved how thorough had been their teaching and how searching was the trial to which the girls were subjected.

On Wednesday the day was principally occupied in examining the Senior A class in Literature, French, Botany and Plane and Spherical Trigonometry. The manner in which the several members of this class sustained themselves and fulfilled all that had been expected of them, was most admirable. They were evidently thoroughly prepared in all the studies and they certainly passed through an unusually long and severe examination in a manner that could not fail to be most gratifying to their friends and the audience generally and most creditable to their instructors.

In conducting the examination of the French class only French was spoken, the examiner asking the question and the pupil giving the answer and the necessary explanation in that language, all of which was done fluently and accurately without any more hesitation or embarrassment than any young lady would naturally and properly feel on being called upon to speak in public on the stage.

In the Botany class each young lady in turn was called upon to describe and analyze a certain genus of plants, which each did in a manner well calculated to convince all her hearers that she perfectly understood the mysteries of that flowery yet obtuse science.

The exercises closed with the examination of the same class in plane and spherical trigonometry. We have had some experience in this and had many a hard hour's work with poor result over its difficulties and it was therefore with unfeigned admiration of and respect for, the skill and ability displayed by the several young ladies that we witnessed them solve difficult problems and work out intricate questions on the board with intelligence, ease and celerity. We speak seriously when we say that many seniors have this year graduated with the degree of A B in the numerous colleges of the United States who do not possess half as clear ideas about plane and spherical Trigonometry as do the young lady graduates of St Helen's Hall.

The examinations closed on Wednesday. On Thursday at 4 P M, the large school room was again thrown open and a very dense crowd of the friends and parents of the girls collected to hear the essays of the graduating class, the awarding of the prizes, the Bishop's address and to see the conferring of the diplomas.

The following young ladies read essays:

ORDER OF READING COMPOSITIONS—ESSAYS

1 Aletta Lindsley (Eng) Struggle
2 Katy Holman (Latin) Lingua Latina
3 Sophia Holman (Eng) Ruins
4 Annie Breck, (French) L'Abbaye de Westminster
5 Mary Carry Wilson (Eng) Beyond the Alps lies Italy.
6 Mary Morris (French) La Fleur de Lis
7 Katy Holman (Eng) Triumphs
8 Carry Wilson, (French) Raphael
9 Mary Morris (Eng) Harmony
10 Mary Kelly (Eng) Southwest from Palos.
11 Annie Breck, (Eng)—Valedictory—The Loom of Life

The graduates with the teachers, the Bishop, and several of the clergy occupied seats on the platform. Each graduate on being introduced by the Bishop arose and in a clear voice read her essay. All these were very well written, the ideas good and as a rule clearly and beautifully expressed. The manner of each reader was graceful, modest and prepossessing. Indeed we may say that the quiet and refined dignity, and composure of these young ladies was most pleasing to all observers.

After the reading of the essays prizes were awarded to Miss Mary R Morris for having gained the highest standing in studies and deportment during the year; to Miss Felecia Brown for highest standing in deportment during the year.

The exercises in the schoolroom having now concluded, the audience were invited to adjourn to the Chapel. When all the audience had taken seats in the Chapel, the young ladies, headed by the Principal and another of the teachers marched in procession from the school room up to the Chapel singing "Onward Christian Soldiers" and were followed by the Bishop and the clergy.

A short religious service was followed by the Bishop's most excellent and timely address, which being concluded the diplomas were given to the graduates.

After the conclusion of this ceremony the pupils retired in order singing, as a retrocessional, "Jerusalem the Golden."

AMUSEMENTS.

There will be a grand concert and strawberry and ice cream festival at the East Portland Park to-morrow. Music will be furnished by the East Portland Band.

They have come—Maguire's California Minstrels. Oro Fino Theater was never so crowded as we saw it last evening upon the occasion of the first appearance of the above organization, which for numbers and excellence exceeds anything of the kind that has ever appeared before a Portland audience. The curtain was rolled up at 8 30 o'clock, and ranged upon the stage were the members of the company dressed in black suits. The first part began with an overture followed by singing interspersed with jokes by the End Men Reed and Sweatnam which were fresh and of course highly appreciated. The singing of Russell, Hurley and Baker we have never yet heard excelled at any similar performance. It was really par excellence. In this connection we would say that the audience should omit the applause while the singing is in progress as it mars the effect which is given in the choruses. The first part closed with an act called the Railroad, a very funny and certainly exciting finale. Little Mac the dwarf now appeared in an Essence which was comical in the extreme. His steps were regular and decidedly old. A comic act followed and next came Billy Newcomb whose singing and dancing was the most finished we have ever witnessed. He is first class. Geo. S. Knight did some Dutch business in a style far better than we have seen it done before by any artist. Welch and Rice's [illegible] "Morning Glories" were excellent. They like all others were called out several times, the audience seeming not to have enough. Reed and Little Mac kept the audience in a [illegible] roar by their ludicrous [illegible] the [illegible] of the Wrong [illegible]—Little Mac [illegible] part of the monkey being well assumed. The performance closed with Billy Newcomb's sketch of Annie, Little Mac and Newcomb creating considerable laughter during the act. [illegible]

TRIED FOR LIFE

TRIAL OF R GIBBENS IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE MURDER OF CHAS F SCHOPPE

Second Day

Immediately on the Circuit Court convening yesterday morning the prosecution called

J H LAPPEUS

Who being sworn testified: Am Chief of Police; was acquainted with Chas F Schoppe during his life; saw defendant about four minutes after the murder was committed, at the time he was placed in the jail; I asked him his name, he said that was for me to find out; said that we were a [illegible] d—d s—s of b—hs and thieves; said that he had killed the officer and that he would like to get away with two or three more; the next day the defendant said he would like to see a priest; he appeared very nervous and said that he was all right provided nothing more serious took place; told him not to be alarmed, that he should be protected.

Here the prosecution rested their case.

The Defense.

On the part of the defense the first witness called was

JOHN CONFER,

Who testified: I reside at Oswego; am engaged in cutting wood; knew the defendant; have known him since January 1872; was in my employ last April; was in my employ about one year and a half altogether; worked for me in East Portland and also at Oswego; know the general character and reputation of defendant; it was always good to my knowledge; defendant was a laboring man and was engaged in chopping wood for me; he left my employ some time last spring, I think it was in April; after he left me he went to the Cascades.

Cross examined—Have heard several persons say the defendant was a good man and had a good reputation for peace and order; heard a man named Bowman speak in this manner of defendant; also Mr Gaston, who said that defendant was getting along well (at the time he was working for Gaston), that he was a quiet man and a good worker.

MR H CANS

Testified: I reside in Oswego; have lived there for the past six years; am merchandising; know defendant; know his reputation to be good for peace and order; defendant left Mr Confer's employ about the last of March or April for the Cascades.

Cross examined—Have talked with several persons about the reputation of the defendant; they all spoke well of defendant; said he was quiet and peaceable.

DR J S GLITNER

I reside in Portland; am a physician; have been practicing since 1848; heard Dr Kinney's testimony; do not know defendant; saw the ball which was exhibited in court and identified as being the one taken from the body of Schoppe. [the witness proceeded to explain to the jury the effect of a wound such a one as was received by the deceased at considerable length, how long a person would survive such a shot under ordinary circumstances.] The witness was of the opinion that a person who was shot in the manner that Mr Schoppe was would be likely to carry out any one single purpose of the mind after being shot. If he was in the act of striking a blow as he received the wound he would in all probability carry it out. The same would be true as to any one single purpose of the mind. [The witness gave at some length the effects of chloroform on a person who had been indulging in drink for a week or more.]

MR IRA GOODNOUGH

Was called and testified: I have resided in Portland for sixteen years; am a contractor; know defendant for two years, he having worked for me for considerable time; I know that the reputation of the defendant for peace and order was good.

Cross-examined—Have heard several persons speak about defendant and his general reputation.

WM BINKELL

Testified: I live at Oswego; occupation, a teamster; have resided there since last October; have known defendant for about eighteen months; never have worked immediately with defendant for any time; know that the reputation of the defendant for peace and order is good, at least so far as I know.

Cross examined—Do not think I ever heard any one say anything about the good character of the defendant.

JOHN DONNOVAN

Testified: I reside in Portland; have lived here seventeen years; have known defendant about two years [witness also testified as to the good character of the defendant]; saw defendant only a few days before the homicide took place; think that it was the day before the killing occurred; he was under the influence of liquor at the time and his mind appeared considerably affected.

Cross examined—Am keeping a saloon at present; defendant came into my saloon the day before the shooting took place, took a cigar and I think drank some in my saloon last Saturday morning; I said in the presence of officer Buck and J H Morrill that defendant was a good honest man when sober but when under the influence of liquor was a dangerous person and would not do to trifle with.

ABRAM FRANKENFIELD

Testified: I live at Oswego; have been there about ten months; I know defendant; became acquainted with him at Oswego [witness testified as to the peaceable and law abiding reputation of defendant]; before I came to Oswego I was engaged in chopping wood; was intimately acquainted with the defendant; he was chopping wood and I was engaged in burning coal.

PATRICK FAY

Testified: I live in Washington Territory near Lewis river; knew the defendant at the Cascades from the 10th of May to the 8th of June; he was laboring there for the O S N Co doing carpenter work; I was a laborer; so far as I know the defendant has a good reputation for peace and order.

MICHAEL DUFFY

Testified: Have lived in Portland for the last six years; am a laboring man; have known Gibbens for about two years. [Witness also bore testimony as to the peaceable character of the defendant.]

Cross examined—I saw defendant down on Front street near the foundry last Friday, about 4 P M; he did not appear to be under the influence of liquor; never saw defendant under the influence of liquor but once and he seemed very peaceable at the time.

D J VAUGHN

Testified: Am now living at the Cascades; have known defendant for about sixteen months; knew Gibbens before he went to the Cascades; I was working at the Cascades last spring for the O S N Co; defendant bore a good reputation for peace and order so far as I knew; have heard a number of persons speak well of him.

OFFICER J W KELLY

Am a policeman; knew Mr Schoppe in his life time. [The witness exhibited the "billy" which the deceased had with him at the time he was shot. It was shown to the jury and also a small phial of chloroform that was found on the person of Gibbens when he was searched after being taken to the jail.]

WM [illegible]

Testified: I reside in Portland; am a gunsmith by trade. [Witness was shown the pistol with which Gibbens killed Schoppe] [illegible]

OFFICER [illegible]

Was recalled. [illegible] The witness was shown the billy which Schoppe had when he was killed. It was identified by the witness as belonging to the deceased. Witness stated that when he entered the saloon the billy was attached to the right wrist of the deceased by means of a string. [Witness then proceeded to show the exact manner in which the club was attached to Mr Schoppe's right arm.]

JOHN [illegible]

Testified: Am a bartender for Otto Treuer; know defendant; saw Gibbens on Saturday in Treuer's saloon; he drank several times during the time he was in the saloon; it was about noon on Saturday when he was there; he came in on Friday and was half [illegible]; he was not intoxicated when he came in on Saturday; defendant was in the saloon almost every day for a week before the occurrence; [illegible] drink much while in the saloon.

T W DAVIS

Testified: I live at the Dalles; know defendant; saw defendant intoxicated once.

JOHN BECK

Called by the prosecution: I live in Portland; am engaged in business at Beck & Son. [Witness examined the pistol in question.] Was of the opinion that it was the weapon which he had sold the defendant—was not positive; defendant told him he wanted to purchase a pistol while he was going up the country in the neighborhood of Lewiston; did not want the pistol loaded; placed the cartridges which he sold to him in a separate package; the pistol was not loaded at all when defendant took it away from the store; it was at his own request that he placed the cartridges in a separate package.

C A WORKELER

Testified: I live in Portland; am an accountant; was near the [illegible] saloon last Saturday evening, and heard the shots; was at Plummer's drug store; heard the first shot and saw Mr Schoppe going towards the saloon; saw him shove the door open with his right hand; he got in about two feet when the hanging door swung back; saw the door swing back to its place before I heard the second report; saw Schoppe run from the corner of the street; about two minutes elapsed between the first and second shot; he had his club in the right hand.

C [illegible] CONNELL

I live in Portland; am a laborer; board at the McFarland House; saw defendant on Friday evening.

Here the prosecution and defense both rested their case.

AFTERNOON

The Court convened promptly at 15 minutes before one o'clock, the attorneys and defendant being present as before.

The Judge ordered the argument to proceed and

F A CRONIN ESQ

Opened the case on behalf of the State, saying he would devote more of his time to the argument of the question of the killing of the deceased by the defendant, that was virtually admitted; there could be no doubt in the minds of any one who had heard the testimony that officer Schoppe had met his death by a pistol ball fired by the prisoner at the bar. The killing therefore being established the burden of proof was thrown upon the defendant to show that such killing was justified, mitigated or excusable. He would therefore argue the points which the defense seemed to raise, the want of premeditation and malice, the intoxication of defendant at the time of the act as an excuse and the previous good character of the accused. On the first point, the premeditation, he read various authorities showing that peace officers in the execution of their duty were under the especial protection of the law, and their killing while discharging such duty is to be deemed murder. (Russell on Crimes, Greenleaf on Evid and Wharton's Crim Law.) While the evidence failed to show that defendant was intoxicated, counsel contended the fact if it had existed would not reduce the grade of the offense, otherwise any man who had murder in his heart might become intoxicated in order to bring his courage up to a point where he could commit an act from which he would shrink in his sober moments. The question of the former good character was to go for what it is worth but could not be offered as an excuse or palliation of the crime, nor be weighed against the positive evidence of guilt of the crime charged. Mr Cronin's argument was clear and forcible, and every point he attempted to elucidate he seemed to make plain to his hearers. He was followed by

HON J F CAPLES,

Who spoke for about one hour in behalf of defendant. He reminded the jury of the grave responsibility which rested upon them in the case and was glad that they had appeared disposed to weigh everything with the greatest care, which would enable them to arrive at a fair conclusion. He had no doubt every one in the community regretted that Mr Schoppe had been killed but he did not believe that the community desired that some victim should suffer the death penalty right or wrong to prove that the saying started by a New York newspaper reporter years ago and repeated by the prosecution in every murder case since, that "hanging for murder was played out." He then proceeded to argue the fallacy of the prosecution's proposition that a peace officer was entitled to any greater protection under the law than other citizens. Every man's life was sacred, whether he sat in the President's chair or occupied the lowliest hut in the land. The evidence was then reviewed at length and concluded that the facts already established two propositions, either of which was utterly inconsistent with defendant's guilt. One was a want of premeditation, the other the want of proof of malice. Every sane man acts from a motive and whenever we investigate any matter in which a crime has been committed we first inquire what could have been the motive. What motive could defendant have for killing Schoppe? The weight to be given to evidence of former good character in trials for crime was discussed. It turned the doubts in favor of the innocence of the accused, though it might not offset positive testimony of the commission of crime. Other than the bad habit of drinking, no man could establish a better character than the defendant outside of the unfortunate circumstances of this case. Having gone through and thoroughly sifted the testimony Mr Caples said he trusted we had not yet arrived at that point in the administration of justice in this country which it would be better never to reach, that a man should suffer punishment for a crime of which he was not guilty simply because some other man had committed crimes. All the defendant had—his life—his hope for the future was in the hands of the Court and jury and then counsel left it feeling that justice would be done.

B F THOMPSON ESQ

Assistant District Attorney then closed the argument on part of the State. He proceeded at once to review the testimony, claiming that it showed a motive on part of defendant and that motive was to clear the way for his escape. The prisoner had just fired at the woman Miles. He had committed an offense for which he was liable to arrest and when Mr Schoppe as officer [illegible] coming into that room he had made the threat detailed [illegible] to escape even at the sacrifice of human life. The defendant had sought to establish a good character, but in the opinion of counsel he had not done so [illegible] utmost care and with a view to the accomplishment of the ends of justice both to the State and to the defendant the case was given to the jury.

JURY OUT

Two bailiffs were then duly sworn to keep the jury according to the law until they should agree upon a verdict, and the twelve men on whose word hangs the life of Robert Gibbens retired to deliberate upon the all important question (to him) of his guilt or innocence of this great crime.

The Court then adjourned until 9 A M to-morrow (Saturday).

Amid the existing excitement attending the election do not forget that you need a new outfit for the summer. There never was a better opportunity offered those in want of clothing to invest than at the present time. Beck & Waldman, the pioneer clothiers, are awake to the necessities of the hour and now offer to buyers an entire suit of clothing at less cost than can be found elsewhere. Their stock is A No 1 and as for quantity none can boast of having more in stock.

Plain English.

There is no good reason why an English speaking people should be doctored in Latin. If we should describe the properties of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in the jargon of the profession not one reader in twenty would understand what it is good for. We prefer to say in simple words that it possesses strengthening, regulating and purifying qualities of the highest order, that the vegetable ingredients of which it is composed are eminently wholesome and salutary and that the stimulant which is combined with them is the purest that can be manufactured. We prescribe it not in the garbled Latin, but in the good old mother tongue as a remedy for languor, debility, nervousness, indigestion, liver complaint, fever and ague, constipation, rheumatism and low spirits and as a preventive of every disease produced by foul air, whether it stagnates in crowded work rooms or imperils life and health in swampy districts and new clearings. So the masses say and so they have been saying for the last twenty years.

SATURDAY MORNING JUNE 20 1874

JUNE

Why should I care to count the time
I know the moments flee too fast
I know the day I … seen its prime
And I shall … in the past

What if the whole of happy June
Is full of just such days of bliss?
I would not have them come too soon
I would not lose an hour of this

The world has made me laugh—and weep
And dreams have been its only boon
I'd give the world away to keep
The gold of this one afternoon

To lose all memory and all care
And lie forever at my ease
Fanned by a faintly scented air
Wandering across such fields as these

To need no more, to wish no more
Than buttercups and columbine
Nursed by the days that came before
And happy if the sun but shine

To be as wealthy as the grass
Gay as yon brook (and I not know why)
Idle as those white clouds that pass
Across the quiet of the sky

Why should I care to count the hours
Too fast too fast they glide away
Too soon to-morrow will be ours
And we shall call this yesterday

Fade, phantoms of the busy year
June days shall be my providence
Pass by me, thought and leave me here
In this charmed region of the sense

KYLE GRIFFITHS

A TALE OF THE WELSH COAST

[From the Cornhill Magazine]

A sea like a duck pond calm as glass and red as fire a long strip of snow white sand, backed the precipitous rocks gray by day red too now from the incarnadine arch of sunset sky above to the westward a strip of land running out into the harbor and showing black as ink against the lower line of living gold where, far beyond the sun has dipped his flaming orb to rest behind the waves Over the point the topsail rigging of a three masted vessel Nearer in the foreground, a girl seated on a heap of dry seaweed her pretty, brown, dimple arms clasped about her knees her head uncovered save by a mass of black silky curls, thrown back and resting against an old boat, moss grown and broken and long disused, which has found its last haven in this quiet nook It was all very quiet at first, but by and by a step came tramping over the hard, smooth sands The young girl's cheek glowed with a deeper red, and her breast began to heave and her hands to tremble as though she were a bird on the eve of flying to its mate. Not being a bird, but a woman, however, she coquetted—sat still staring at the sunset she did not see and started and almost screamed when a big man brown and bearded and muscular came suddenly round the stern of the ruined boat and with a short exclamation, half choked as in great gladness took her straight to his arms, and hugged her till she screamed in right earnest —

Kyle, put me down! put me down How dare you be so rude sir? Let me go please do "

"Not till you've given me a kiss Faithie " said the other, keeping his hold good humoredly yet with something of reproach in his grave blue eyes ' What! not one after three months' waiting? Why, lassie, I thought you cared for me a bit better nor that An I hungering for this minute every day and hour since I left you

The tone of the reminder—perhaps even the slackening of his arms—touched her Faith Morgan had a warm little heart albeit five years younger and smaller than the one against which it was beating now Inconsistent as a true woman the moment he let go she began to cling, and put up her lips

I do care for you, Kyle ' she said, only —only you startled me so," and forthwith she began to sob like a baby He made no answer at first, only kissing her with close, tender kisses on lips and eyes, till the tears were driven back and the lips pouted

Now, Kyle, do let me go You're so rough and—and some one might be passing '

And what if some one was' asked the sailor, loosening his hold however and letting her resume her former seat, while he took up a position on the boat's keel beside her "Who has a better right to kiss you than I?" I can tell you, Sam Jones' lassie didn't wait for him to begin, for we walked up from the pier together, and she had the house door open, and her arms round his neck, while he was still peering up at the window on the chance of her looking out. '

' Nancy Evans is a bold [illegible] quoth Faith tartly "If those are the manners you like Kyle, I wonder you didn't try to cut Jones out when you first came here '

I come between another man and his lass' cried the sailor, staring, ' but there, you're joking sweetheart and besides, you know there's never a girl in Wales or England either that could meet my fancy save your little self alone

You don't mention America, ' said Faith saucily.

'America!' repeated her lover 'why in the name of all that's comely, you wouldn't have me compare you to a Yankee girl, would you"

The honest indignation in his tone however ludicrous in itself, had a softening influence on Faith Her big brown eyes grew suddenly wet, and her voice sank to a half shamefaced whisper —

Only I told you I wouldn't wonder if you took to a foreign girl, Kyle Some say they're prettier than we are

"You would ha wondered though retorted Kyle, promptly ' Prettier than you I'd like to see the woman Faith give me your hand, and turn your face this way Do you think I'll be content with the back of your head, to-night?'

He took her hand as he spoke, and she let him keep it, but her face was still turned away, and there was a faint quiver about the ruddy lips. Perhaps her next words explained it

Father says you're going away again almost at once, Kyle

'Ay when he came aboard to meet us he gave me the offer It did seem hard a most too hard, when I'd hoped to have a little rest aside of you afore I went away again But, after all it will shorten the time o waiting one way, lassie. '

' How Kyle?"

Didn't your father say I was to wait for you till I was a captain I'm going as captain, this time, and only for a six week's trip, least ways, that's what they calculate it at. Some business with the New York agents I think but I suppose you've heard about it '

'That the Olinda was to be fitted out for sale and that you were to take her over an charter another vessel to bring you back Yes but won't it take you longer

I doubt not They're to have the boat and cargo ready Mr Denbigh's arranged all that Did you know his son—the new junior partner—is to ship with us'

'Yes she said Good heaven how rosy her face was now and yet the crimson sky was fading into blues and violets He was looking at her and the brows suddenly darkened over his eyes giving them an odd fierce expression, His voice however was quieter than before

'I can't say I care about sailing with the owner's son I'd liefer take any other passenger They're apt to fancy that because they're boss ashore they need be boss aboard, an I'm a masterful man myself an don't hold with no Co's in salt water Howsever I shouldn't mind so much if I liked the man

And don't you ' asked Faith timidly her color still high

Do you ' said he stooping forward to look her full in the face He's been a deal at Amlwch since I left people tell me an you must ha seen plenty of him What do you think of him?

I, Kyle? —her eyes drooping beneath the sharp scrutiny— I—I don't know He's pleasant spoken and civil I think he's nice enough

And I think him a cross between fool and ape, quoth Kyle Griffiths [illegible] seacook' Well Faith I wonder —

Faith snatched her hand away He has more manner than you [illegible] he [illegible] and ruffling like an enraged sparrow he's a gentleman at any rate an would never dream of using such language of people he don't even know nor [illegible] Oh — and her feelings were too much for words and an indignant little sigh and shiver filled the gap

Even the violet was dying out of the sky now and cold gray shadows crept up from the east and threw a sombre tint over the man's face A sudden cold wind rose out to the sea [illegible] his breast with long fretful lines like the puckered face of an [illegible] child It chilled the dimples in Faith's cheeks and blew the soft brown locks off Kyle's stern brow and far overhead a gull flew by with a long shrill scream like the wail of a banshee Before it ceased Kyle spoke —

'He's gentleman is he? I thank God then I am not Had I been one I might have been betrothered to some fine lady instead o the daughter of an honest seafaring man like myself Faith twice these five minutes have you found fault with my manners I don't say they're finer nor a rough sailor's have need to be but you never laid ill on them before Has this gentleman been teaching you to do so in my absence this time

Women are constitutionally cowards Faith Morgan was a very woman For all reply at first she [illegible] really trembled and took refuge [illegible] fem ininity [illegible] burst of tears It was not until the [illegible] Kyle up [illegible] [illegible] out —

How [illegible] You [illegible] that I love you as you [illegible] better than—and yet—of [illegible] Another burst and the pretty head drooping very near Kyle's knee Involuntarily he laid his hand [illegible] his [illegible] his voice [illegible] softened [illegible] ing tone

Am I cruel [illegible] and I to you? Nay then don't cry Mayhap I was over sharp but I was met on landing by all talk about young Denbigh and you They said he had been taking my place [illegible] I wouldn't believe it nor even hearken to the foul tongued gossips it sort o cut me when you spoke up for him Faith lass I love you more than many a husband If you were to play me false with any one I think I'd feel like killing him and you too

He looked like it at the moment and he believed him, and trembled at the mingling of passionate tenderness and wrath in his tone Instinctively she turned and clasped his strong hand in both her [illegible] face turned up coaxingly

Don't think such things, Kyle You know I never could What's Mr Denbigh to me but father's partner '

He was holding the soft hand and looking down into the sweet eyes The moon just risen glittered on something which unnoticed by her, had escaped from the folds of her neckerchief—a golden circle with the portrait of a man within

Faith said Kyle Griffiths in a tone which strove for steadiness you're wearing a grand new trinket since I saw you last Who gave you that?'

He spoke too suddenly With a quick frightened gesture she snatched away her hand as if to hide the bauble With a face deeply terribly red the red of cowardly consciousness she stammered out —

I—I—it's nothing—father's—I mean I bought it"

Without a word Kyle loosed her wrist and rose up Without a word he turned from her, only when he had gone ten steps he came back and said very hoarse and low —

Faith Morgan you have told me a lie an you know it I can't say if it was for the first time, but I can say it shall be the last I wondered —and his voice sank deeper still— that you should shrink when I took you in my arms a while ago I wonder now you dare let me do it, wi that man's face lying between my heart an yours. Go to him now an you will I want no wife on whom I can't depend in word an deed

He was gone the next morning and Faith sobbing bitterly with grief and anger went home to find Philip Denbigh at the garden gate waiting for her

He had been courting her for the last two months and she—had coquetted with him. Flirting is not an amusement confined to the upper ten I have heard of a young Patagonian squaw who was as finished an adept at it as any Belgravian beauty and Faith an only child and the prettiest girl in Amlwch had been wonderfully fond of her trying her fascinations on the weaker sex till the arrival of a new first mate for her father's favorite vessel, the vessel he had commanded himself until he was admitted to a partnership in the firm of Denbigh & Co his employers Kyle Griffiths big as a giant, true as the light of day, and masterful as he said himself had cut out all the rest in no time and won Faith for his own undivided property She never even cared to look at any one else when he was by and, I believe loved him entirely as was in her nature, with most [illegible] affection; but when Kyle was away [illegible] and young Mr Denbigh came to Amlwch—Mr Denbigh who was what she called a gentleman some one who wore fine clothes, and had white hands and a curly mustache—and when this hero testified an immediate and violent admiration for herself how could she help being pleased? how could she help going back to the old habits?

She did not help, either Mr Denbigh made love and she smiled and flirted all unconscious in her fluttered vanity of what the neighbors were saying until just three days before Kyle's return the suitor brought matters to a crisis by a declaration They had a tiff about a photo of Faith, which Denbigh had stolen and put in his locket and he had brought her a fine gold locket with one of himself in it, and begged her to accept it and take the donor into the bargain

Followed a wakening for silly little Faith and the confession, But I am engaged '

Followed anger (from the gentleman) and tears (from the lady).

Followed fresh solicitations more ardent from the rebuff and fresh ' noes ' more feeble from remorse and shame

Followed tremendous scenes of masculine woe and anguish, and feminine contrition and soothing

Finally Denbigh left the house determined to try again on his return from America and Faith remained with the locket which she had at last consented to keep and wear as some small salve to the [illegible] wounded affections She loved Kyle far, far better than his rival but Phillip Denbigh was so handsome and sweet spoken it would be down right cruel to refuse him such a trifle as hanging the trinket round her neck for a day or two and no one need ever know Nevertheless some one did know—now and the sweet spoken gentleman got a savage snubbing on the aforementioned evening

Kyle will hear I refused him and come back He'll never leave me so He must ask my pardon first, thought the weeping beauty that night

He did not ask pardon however nor come back The Olinda sailed three days later and Faith's two lovers sailed in it Kyle had a beautiful black retriever which he had been used to leave behind to take care of his lassie love while he was gone He took it with him this time and Faith nearly wept her lovely eyes out, that she had been too proud to own her own folly and seek a reconciliation before he went. Patience' it would be only six weeks or the most eight and then he would be back and she would be good and meek He must forgive her then

Eight weeks had passed—eight weeks all but two days—when the sun went down in stormy grandeur one cold evening on the Irish sea It had been blowing great guns all day and for many nights before and the waves had wrestled terribly with a crazy barque which with creaking timbers and de[illegible] with strained and naked masts [illegible] the gale till at every [illegible] bury themselves in the foam crested waves [illegible] striven like a living thing to weather the [illegible] storm

Where was she now? The huge breakers crested still with foam [illegible] dashed themselves moaning and roaring against the gray and iron bound cliffs of the Welsh coast flinging up great fragments of timber torn and twisted scraps of sail [illegible] and battered, shapeless things [illegible] their piteous [illegible] for any human [illegible] against the pitiless rocks only to [illegible] them back into the black and boiling gulf below Above great storm rent clouds [illegible] but fringed with fire were gathering [illegible] over the threatening [illegible] and low on the horizon the sun, like a blood red [illegible] from between them to [illegible] black and broken over which the sea was [illegible] unresisted fury—the stern of a vessel with a broken bowsprit and foremast just visible among the foam and spray [illegible] the wind had lessened that [illegible] before the angry sun was all that the captain of the pilot cutter cared to show [illegible] its tender [illegible] I had been [illegible] get to [illegible] near the wreck at all [illegible] she hit [illegible] rocks and here was a look of relief on more than one hardy [illegible] burnt face, when the order was given to [illegible] and bout ship again Suddenly the captain caught up his spy glass which was lying [illegible] and after a hasty glance [illegible] roared to the men to hold all hard!

There's summat living a top o't, he said pointing to a ridge of low [illegible] where some object was [illegible] even by the naked eye There [illegible] the line o high water [illegible]

A murmur [illegible] the crew ' Look [illegible] Poor fellow [illegible] a rare [illegible] such [illegible] life in him [illegible]

Lower the [illegible] and the captain [illegible] Now my lads ready [illegible] [illegible] We [illegible] able to get over near him [illegible] you lubbers chuck a bottle o rum after the stern sheets—quick

They are brave kindly men those Welsh pilots; I have owed my life to them and know, but I am afraid they thought their our [illegible] kindness wasted when they found the object of it was—only a dog They hauled him [illegible] the boat none the less [illegible] much spirit poor fellow to [illegible] efforts and [illegible] feebly [illegible] [illegible] wh he [illegible]

[illegible] Faith Morgan [illegible] Amlwch [illegible] [illegible] and read it [illegible]

[illegible] Denbigh [illegible] with [illegible] ashore [illegible] my rough words [illegible] There [illegible] [illegible] been willed to let me

They gave that paper with the dog—a last fond farewell—to Faith Morgan It was all that ever came to port of the ill fated Pride of the West the ramshackle old barque which had been hastily patched up and the [illegible] more [illegible] crew were never heard of again They must have perished with their fine young owner in the vain attempt [illegible] that stormy night and there was [illegible] tell of those [illegible] when the sweet spoken gentleman [illegible] vulgar [illegible] the man whom he considered his successful rival - the man who was no gentleman but who had the [illegible] feelings that would have made him [illegible] anything rather than by word or gesture [illegible] the man [illegible] he loved into an unseemly dispute —the man whose unswerving discipline and tireless energy had alone preserved them even so long,— the man who when the ship had struck and the cowardly scoundrel who owned it was clinging in frantic helpless terror to his knees when the men were shouting for the Captain to join them and cast off lifted in the miserable wretch first with his own strong arms and then seeing there was no room for more cut the rope that held the boat to the sinking ship and stayed alone—to die

And Faith? Faith is living still I met her yesterday coming up the high street at Amlwch with her married daughter each holding a hand of a wee, toddling brown eyed thing between them A bright bonny old woman she is too with as comely a face as if the eyes had never been washed in salt tears the brow never wrinkled under a cloud of care

I must be goin home to my old man she said stopping at the corner [illegible] sweetums and then turned just at the church yard wall where stands a rough [illegible] To the memory of the captain and crew of the Pride of the West

Kyle's prayer has been granted—perhaps better by his death than if he had lived to carry it out As Faith says—

He was a rare good man but hard over hard and stern for ordinary folk

The principal question now affecting or discussed in our local money market is what will be the rate at which funds to move our large surplus crops this year can be secured Heretofore exporters have been compelled to calculate on a wide margin between their buying price and the European rates no small part of which margin was chargeable to the high figure for the use of money which prevailed, and much money was kept out of the grain trade because it could be more profitably invested in other branches of commerce or loaned at rates more remunerative The prospect however now is that available capital for this purpose will be plentier and hence bear a more moderate interest than either last year or the year previous when a condition of stringency in financial matters was generally prevalent This will also have a tendency to excite more activity in the market here and bring about strong competition among buyers

That money is plentier in Oregon and on the coast at large than it has been before for two years no one will deny and if the coming harvest shall bring about its more general investment and circulation the country at large will have cause for congratulation as trade of all kinds can now be called very dull This dullness however has none of the characteristics of an omen of disaster but is the only usual bridging over season between the business of the spring and that of the new harvest year

WASHINGTON June 19 —In [illegible] the motion to strike out of the River and Harbor appropriation [illegible] survey to be made upon all the section [illegible] throughout the country in [illegible] at numerous points [illegible] Columbia river M [illegible] showed that while [illegible] cluding Columbia river [illegible] charges between Chicago and New York for freight [illegible] are nine and one [illegible] mills per ton per mile and by railroad twelve mills per mile freight charges on the Columbia river by reason of no [illegible] are from 10 to 12 cents per mile [illegible] The House bill passed by [illegible]

WASHINGTON June [illegible] The [illegible] relief [illegible] the Senate to day for the relief [illegible] land bill which recently received [illegible] attention from the California press [illegible] danger apprehended from its passage has been averted by the [illegible] Hager and adoption of two amendments [illegible] that [illegible] supported by Sargent provide [illegible] that in [illegible] any [illegible] grant of lands [illegible] that is reserved [illegible] made for railroad purpose [illegible] shall be taken in lieu of [illegible] settler [illegible] [illegible] The bill also contains provisions that its privileges shall not in any manner be construed to enlarge any railroad grant

The House bill subjecting old railroad lands to [illegible] taxation has been reported by Howe from [illegible] the Senate Railroad Committee [illegible] amendment [illegible] nature of a substitute [illegible] all portions of the Union and Central Pacific railroads, and their branches on which trains have been run during the last year are accepted [illegible] etc within the meaning of the third section [illegible] of July 1st 1862 and directing that patents shall issue for all lands granted in aid thereof as rapidly as U. S. surveys are extended which surveys shall be made at the cost of the Government the requirement of the act of July 2d 1864—that grantees shall pay the cost of surveys—being repealed

The Attorney General is considering the course of proceedings to be adopted against the Union Pacific Railroad under the act recently passed requiring the collection of five per cent on the net earnings of the company It is said that after the expiration of thirty days from demand made by the Secretary of the Treasury, should the monies not be paid the Department will apply for an adjudication in bankruptcy

Report of the Senate Postal Committee Favoring the P. M. S. S Co

WASHINGTON June 20 —The Senate Postal Committee in their report on the P [illegible] contract for a semi monthly China [illegible] iron ships say the delay of the [illegible] for ten years' service to commence [illegible] ought not under the circumstances [illegible] a material breach [illegible] was claimed during the delay but [illegible] were actually performed by consent [illegible] in other ships receiving [illegible] that three of the most failures [illegible] and the Government to terminate the [illegible] should so elect The Committee [illegible] that the law which specified that the service [illegible] commence in October 1873 did not [illegible] in iron ships but that the [illegible] new ships should be [illegible] was an extra provision of the [illegible] and it was therefore competent for the [illegible] General to waive compliance with [illegible] the contract in force [illegible] carried in other iron ships The [illegible] master General's report [illegible] no good reason is perceived why [illegible] should not be permitted to continue the service as at present until new [illegible] completed and placed on the line [illegible] standing that it shall make no [illegible] subsidy or any part thereof [illegible] sea postage only as heretofore in full [illegible] for the additional service until the [illegible] be fully complied with In these views the Committee concur and do not believe that [illegible] to annul the contract for additional [illegible] nor do they consider any action necessary except the assurances of the Postmaster General [illegible] of the contract and service [illegible] requested by the company In conclusion [illegible] call attention to the importance of [illegible] American hands rapid mail service across the Pacific Ocean and say if there is any possibility of realizing the results claimed by the company from their new and fast steamers at a cost not exceeding one million annually there should be little hesitation on the part of the Government [illegible] aid. They point to the enormous subsidies paid by England and France for ocean mail service beside which that to the Pacific Mail Company is insignificant
